Fern Rock Maintenance Yard and Shop

The ERA is pleased to announce a trip to the SEPTA system on April 16, 2016 for a guided tour of Fern Rock Maintenance Yard and Shop.

We will depart New York at 8:30 a.m. via chartered coach from 8th Avenue and 41st Street, across the street from Port Authority Bus Terminal and in front of the New York Times Building. We will make another pick-up stop at Metropark, New Jersey at approximately 9:00 a.m. and then continue to Philadelphia. Our expected arrival time at 1234 Market Street is 11:00 a.m.

Following our arrival, we will visit the SEPTA store along with the PCC car display, and then have ample time for a lunch break. We'll regroup at 1:00 p.m. and will then take the Broad Street subway (SEPTA) to Fern Rock station. A SEPTA representative will escort us to the yard for our tour.

The Fern Rock Yard is the main yard and shop for the Broad Street subway and is at the north end of the line. Maintenance functions include heavy overhauls, routine maintenance and repair to various subway rolling stock such as the Kawasaki B-VIs. There are two storage yards for trainsets as well as a maintenance-of-way yard.

Our chartered coach will take us to the Aquarium station in Camden after the tour. We will take the River Line light rail system to Trenton, all the while enjoying the scenery of the Delaware River running alongside the right-of-way. At Trenton, our chartered coach will pick us up for the return trip to New York City. Our dinner stop at 6:30 p.m. will be at Mastoris Diner in Bordentown, New Jersey. Our expected arrival time in New York City will be 10:00 p.m.
